

Inspectors place hospital trust in special measures

Newly-published report says chief executive responsible for 'inadequate' rating

By William Mata

THE Princess Alexandra Hospital NHS Trust has been placed into special measures after inspectors rated it "inadequate".

The Care Quality Commission (CQC), the independent regulator of health and social care, found the trust to be underperforming in three of the five areas of inspection.

Its report said the trust was "inadequate" in providing a safe, responsive and well-led service and held chief executive Phil Morley responsible.

Mr Morley said he was aware the hospital faced challenges but reaffirmed the trust's commitment to its patients' health and safety.

Service

The trust was rated "good" for providing a caring service but was given a "requires improvement" rating for effectiveness.

After inspections on June 28 and 29 and July 2 and 6, Professor Sir Mike Richards, chief inspector of hospitals, wrote a letter criticising the leadership of PAH NHS Trust.

The visit was a follow-up inspection to assess if improvements had been made in all core services since the last inspection in July last year.

Inspectors only visited Princess Alexandra Hospital, in Hamstel Road, Harlow.

The trust also manages St Margaret's Hospital, Herts, and Essex Hospital in Bishop's Stortford and Rectory Lane Clinic in Loughton.

Professor Richards wrote: "We have rated the Princess Alexandra Hospital as 'inadequate' overall due to significant concerns in safety, responsiveness and leadership.

"There is an apparent disconnect between the trust board leadership level and the ward level. It was evident the trust leaders were not aware of many of the concerns we identified through this inspection."

He also reported a deterior-

FESTIVE FEELING: Santa is on the hunt for some little helpers to support hospice's charity event

Helpers needed for hospice's annual Santa run event

SANTA needs some little helpers for a charity run around town in aid of St Clare Hospice.

The Hastingswood-based centre is holding its Santa Dash from The Water Gardens, Harlow, on December 4 and is recruiting marshals to line the route and offer support.

Jade Clarke, St Clare's events fundraiser, said: "There is a really great buzz at our events and the festive Santa Dash is possibly one of the most special.

"It is so rewarding to help with an event that you know will benefit local families who are in need on Christmas Day itself."

Fundraisers are being encouraged to dress up as Father Christmas and complete a 5.5km run to Harlow Town Park or the shorter one-mile route around the town centre.

St Clare offers free care to people with life-limiting illness and costs more than £4million a year.

It is hoped the festive run, which is open to adults, children, babies in pushchairs and even dogs, will raise £10,000 – the amount needed to fund services on Christmas Day.

Runners are still encouraged to join, but the charity also needs marshals to direct Father Christmases, offer support and hand out goody bags.

Advanced entry to the Santa Dash costs £12 for adults and £2.50 for children, or £15 and £5 on the day.

Future of the hospital is debated by council

Questions raised over potential move of Princess Alexandra

By William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

THE future of Princess Alexandra Hospital was debated by councillors, who continue to mull over plans to transform the town.

Harlow Council leaders are currently drawing up a local plan that could shape the town's development for the next 15 years.

At a Cabinet meeting on Thursday last week, Councillor Jon Clempner, council leader, suggested the hospital in Hamstel Road, Harlow, could be relocated.

When questioned by fellow Labour councillor Tony Durcan, Mr Clempner said: "Princess Alexandra Hospital has a number of infrastructure issues on its current site.

"There would be a need, in our view, for a new hospital in the town. The timescale for that development is in constant debate.

"I firmly believe we need a multi-model facility to serve the Harlow area."

Highways and infrastructure, a key issue in the local plan, was also debated, with Conservative councillors questioning where new road links may be placed.

Harlow Council will co-operate in pushing forward with development plans with neighbouring East Herts District Council, Uttlesford District Council and Epping Forest District Council.

The latter has already completed a draft local plan. Harlow Council has been allowed extra time to complete its equivalent, which is due before the end of the year.

Cabinet also supported five motions that will shape the London Stansted

Cambridge Corridor (LSCC) project. Harlow is set to benefit from being at the economic centre of the Government's project.

Mr Clempner commented: "We are looking to strengthen our relationship (with LSCC) Consortium.

"There is a joint understanding about Harlow being the development centre in West Essex and East Hertfordshire."

But Councillor Andrew Johnson, leader of the Conservative group, commented: "We need to make sure that Harlow residents are getting jobs."

He questioned whether there was a skills shortage in Harlow, to which the council leader replied that town schools are now putting an emphasis on teaching technology subjects.

Thousands of illegal cigarettes seized in an operation

SNIFFER dogs helped find thousands of grams of illegal tobacco in an Essex Trading Standards operation.

Officers seized 3,620 cigarettes and 1,675g of rolling tobacco from one premises in Harlow, which cannot be named for legal reasons.

The operation aimed to reduce the sale and supply of contraband tobacco and reduce the illicit sale of tobacco to young people under the age of 18.

Trading Standards held a road show in Harlow town centre where residents advised officers on places they knew tobacco was being sold illegally.

Liz Webb, a Trading Standards officer, said: "We wanted to educate them and also appeal for intelligence in the road show."

"We then acted on the intelligence we received. We did five visits in Harlow and there was one hit.

"We are dealing with quite sophisticated concealments which have been purpose built to conceal tobacco, sometimes these units can be motorised.

"We would not be able to identify it if we did not have dogs. We have assistance from our partners at Wagtails, a private company that provides sniffer dogs."

Ms Webb added: "It is one of a few towns in Essex where we have seen illegal tobacco trading on this scale. It is the biggest one this side of the county but there are other areas we find this going on."

Anne Brown, Essex County Council's portfolio holder for Trading Standards, said: "The importance of this work cannot be underestimated and it would not happen without the help and support of the people of Essex."

"The information provided to us by our residents directly contributes to inspections such as this all over the county."

Four-year-old helped mother by calling emergency services

ALL SMILES: Stacey Hemes with her children, Florence and Felix, who dialled 999

'She knew to call 999'

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A FOUR-year-old girl came to her poorly mother's aid by calling the emergency services and arranging an ambulance.

Florence Hemes instinctively dialled 999 when her mother, Stacey-George, fainted outside their home in Stackfield, Harlow, after knocking an already-broken ankle.

The Cooks Spinney Primary Academy pupil even made sure her sister Felicity, two, was with their mum while she made the call.

Mrs Hemes, 26, who has now recovered, said: "It was an amazing thing she did.

"I had already broken my ankle and I smashed my foot on a table. As I was waiting for my mum to pick me up to take me to the hospital, I ended up passing out.

Responsibility

"When I came round, I saw Florence with the phone in her hands. She was saying she had called an ambulance and gave me the phone to confirm the address.

"She even made sure Felicity was with me. She took on adult responsibility without even realising it.

"At four years old, not many children would know what to do.

"I got in the ambulance when it came and my mum arrived ten minutes later. She looked after the girls as I got taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital."

Mrs Hemes was treated for her injuries at the hospital in Hamstel Road, Harlow, and arrived back home feeling proud of her daughter's actions.

Florence, who also lives with father Richard Hemes, had not long finished school for the day when it happened.

Judith Gay, the girls' grandmother, babysat until their parents arrived back home.

Amazingly, Florence had not recently been prompted about how to react in an emergency.

Mrs Hemes continued: "I cannot put it into words, I was just amazed that she knew what to do as I can't remember the last time I told her about it.

"She said she did not know afterwards [how she had learned].

"Even now she does not know how good she really was."

MEP calls for calm Brexit to benefit county businesses

BREXIT should be handled calmly and reasonably to benefit Essex businesses, according to the area's MEP.

Vicky Ford, a Conservative who represents the East of England, spoke at an event hosted by the Bishop's Stortford Chamber of Commerce.

That morning, she had visited the GlaxoSmithKline plant in Ware to get a feel for the effect of the Brexit vote on business in the area.

Speaking to a range of businesspeople and local politicians, she said: "I have been seeing the asthma inhalers they make there and GSK are going to invest another £74million in those products which will be sold in more than 100 different countries.

"It's critical to their operations that we have a negotiation between the UK and the rest of Europe that is as calm and reasonable and damage limiting as possible."

She added: "It's a great local example of the kind of work I have been doing around Brexit."

Mrs Ford also gave her views on the negotiations surrounding the single market, national security, science and research hubs in Cambridge, and free movement around Europe.

Fellow MEP Richard Howitt has announced plans to step down from his role.

Area had to be cordoned off but 'bomb' was nothing more sinister than lead piping

Bang goes the theory suspicious find was explosive

SUSPICIOUS: The device was discovered by a group of builders working on a house in Gilston

Photos: Annie Gillman

By Sam Payne

sam.payne@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A SUSPICIOUS device rumoured to be a bomb was found in a village – but it turned out to be lead piping.

Police and explosive ordinance disposal technicians were called to Pye Corner, Gilston, at around 10.35am on Friday after builders made a discovery.

A 200-metre cordon was established and Pye Corner and Redricks Lane were closed.

Drivers were forced to bypass the cordoned-off area, and traffic built up as a result.

Rumours began to circulate that a bomb had been discovered.

Resident Terry Goody said: "I and my wife were out at the time that all the commotion started, but as we approached Redricks Lane, people were telling us to turn around, and there were a lot of cars coming down the road."

"One driver told us that a bomb had been found in the village."

Dawn Oakes, administrative assistant at High Wych C of E Primary School, added: "All I am aware of the incident is what parents have told us – that a bomb has been found in Gilston."

"This is bound to create chaos with the traffic when school finishes for the day, and we also have a book festival on this evening, so it's not going to help us with that, either."

Rumours

One man, who was in the process of moving into his new home in High Wych and did not wish to be named, said: "I know very little about what has actually happened, but I have heard that it is a bomb."

Social media was also alight with rumours about the nature of the device.

Commenting on our Facebook page, Albert Mutton said: "Hive of terrorist activity, Gilston!", while Steve Evans pondered that the suspicious device found by the builders might be "crispy creme doughnuts".

However, later in the day, a spokeswoman for Hertfordshire Constabulary confirmed "the EOD have determined it is not a viable device, but is believed to be some kind of lead piping".

All closures were then lifted.

People retook to social media to vent their anger about the incident.

Jodie Goodacre posted on Facebook saying: "So turns out this is why the road was closed and I was late," and Karen Brown complained: "I got stuck in that."

Other users saw the funny side, with Kit Jennings saying: "Anyone that has played Cluedo knows just how dangerous lead piping can be".

Lucy Denial added: "Lead piping found in the ball room by Professor Plumb."

CONGESTION: Traffic was forced to bypass the village after diversions were put in place

Family come together for event in honour of man with rare condition

Charity quiz in memory of father

By Annie Gillman
star@hertsexnews.co.uk

THE family of a man who died of a rare condition are holding a fundraiser in his memory.

Dad-of-five Michael Beament passed away in November 2013 from progressive supranuclear palsy (PSP), aged 45.

He left behind his wife of 27 years, Jackie, and five children, Sophie, 26, Jade, 24, Rebecca, 22, Connor, 20, and Jack, 18 – who are now planning the event.

The charity quiz night will take place at Passmore's Academy in Harlow on Saturday, October 29, with all the money raised going to the PSP Association.

Daughter Jade, an operations booker at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital, is hoping the event will be successful.

"I decided to hold the event to continue to raise money and awareness for PSP," she said.

"It is a rare disease so not a lot of people know about it. If we can spread the word about the charity, hopefully it would encourage people to donate.

Supporting

"PSP Association are great at supporting the family as well, it was my dad who originally signed up to their monthly newsletter to learn about the disease, and it would sometimes have tips in there.

"It was also nice to read about other families going through the same thing, it made us feel like we weren't alone."

Jade, who is currently expecting her first baby, added: "He is missed so very much by us all. Life isn't the same without him.

"We remember him in different ways every day, and he would be so proud of everything we do. "It would be dad's first grandchild. I think it would be nice to be able to take our baby to the forest and tell them all about their grandad when it's older."

The family has previously held several events to raise money and awareness of PSP.

In November 2014, Jade held a charity tea party to mark one year since her father's death, raising £700.

MISSED: Michael Beament

And several family members took part in November last year, contributing to a current fundraising total of £1,640.96.

If the team's target of £2,500 is reached, the charity will dedicate a tree to Mr Beament in a Woodland Trust site somewhere in the UK.

The quiz begins at 7.30pm and there is space for 15 teams of up to eight people.

There will be several rounds, including general knowledge, sport and music, and there will be prizes on offer for the winners.

TRAGIC DEATH: Summer Grant

Pair bailed again in bouncy castle case

TWO people arrested in connection with the death of Summer Grant have been rebailed until December 14.

The seven-year-old girl died on March 26 after a bouncy castle she was playing on in Harlow Town Park blew away in high winds.

Summer, who lived in Norwich, was taken to hospital and died from her injuries.

A 24-year-old woman and 27-year-old man, both from Cambridgeshire, were arrested on suspicion of manslaughter by gross negligence.

They had returned bail last month.

Summer was remembered in the Town Park in April, when family members and town mourners joined to lay candles and held a minute's silence.

Different venue for gig series

CONCERT promoters the Hit Cave will move venue to carry on encouraging new and live music in the town.

The independent group moved from Bishop's Stortford to Harlow earlier this year to fill the gap left by venue The Square, which closed in Fourth Avenue, at the end of last year.

However, now the venue is temporarily back, organisers of the Hit Cave have arranged for their concert night to transfer there from Burnt Mill Snooker and Social Club.

Adam Smith, from The Square, confirmed Kids In The Riot, another concert promoter, would also be staging gigs at the venue.

He said: "We're excited to be working with these promoters who will be concentrating on bringing new, exciting acts to the venue and offering opportunities to new acts."

ation in some services since the 2015 inspection, in which a serious bed capacity and staff shortage issue was noted.

Eleven key failings were recorded, which included a poor administration of storage, an ineffective flow of information and notable delays in answering call bells on surgical wards.

The trust will receive a package of support from NHS Improvement while a dedicated improvement director has already started work.

The CQC found the trust "inadequate" for urgent and emergency services, critical care and end-of-life care.

It was found to require improvement for medical care, surgery and services for children and young people.

Outpatients and diagnosing imaging was rated "good" and maternity and gynaecology was rated "outstanding".

Mr Morley said: "We are of course disappointed with this rating, we know we deliver good care here and that patients have good outcomes from their treatment.

"We know the hospital isn't perfect, our emergency department, like many others, is very busy and capacity across the hospital means too frequently patients have unacceptable delays.

"However, our patients should be in no doubt our staff are 100 per cent committed to delivering good care and we are pleased this was recognised by the CQC."

He added since the inspection a programme has been in place to deal with the patient flow.

Automatic compensation will be available via a mobile phone app

Rail users will get cash back

By Sam Meadows

sam.meadows@hertsessexnews.co.uk

SEASON ticket holders on Greater Anglia services will soon receive automatic compensation via a mobile phone app.

The scheme will launch in January and will allow commuters to nominate their usual train, with compensation automatically paid if they experience delays.

The company has also just launched an extra tier in its delay repay scheme, with disruption of more than two hours now eligible for a full refund.

A spokeswoman for Greater Anglia said: "Passengers who are delayed for more than 120 minutes will receive 100 per cent of the cost of their ticket, whether it's a single or return.

"Customers will also have a broader range of options to select when seeking the delay repay compensation payment – the usual cheque or National Rail travel voucher, reimbursement to the credit/debit card used to pay for the ticket or to their PayPal account.

"Automatic delay repay will be introduced in 2017 for season and advanced ticket holders."

Commuters travelling on other rail services will soon also benefit from the Delay Repay 15 scheme introduced last week by the Government.

Announcement

The announcement means customers will soon be able to claim compensation following delays of 15 minutes. Currently the limit is 30 minutes.

Govia Thameslink will be the first franchise to bring in the changes with Greater Anglia following at a later date.

After a question was tabled by Hertford and Stortford MP Mark Prisk, the Government said it was impossible to confirm a date for the Dutch company for business reasons.

CHANGES: Greater Anglia will allow commuters to claim compensation automatically

Robert Halfon, who represents Harlow, welcomed these changes.

He said: "There are a lot of improvements planned by Abellio for their new franchise, but the proof of the pudding will be in the eating, and I will continue to work hard to get the best deal for residents and commuters in Harlow and the villages.

"I have a further meeting with the railway minister in a few weeks' time to discuss the cost of season tickets in Harlow, but I am very pleased that the Government has announced an improved com-ensation scheme that will see customers entitled to compensation if their journey is delayed by any more than 15 minutes."

But Mark Prisk, the MP for Hertford and Stortford, said this was not enough to satisfy commuters.

"I'm very pleased the Government is changing the rules," he said.

"But I'm seeing a continuing range of criticism from customers and it's simply not good enough. I will be telling them so in the next few days."

Under the improved delay repay scheme introduced by the Department for Transport, passengers will be able to claim 25 per cent of the cost of a single ticket for delays between 15 and 29 minutes.

The existing compensation thresholds will apply for delays from 30 minutes, with passengers able to apply for compensation through the rail operator.

The current delay repay thresholds are as follows: 50 per cent of the single fare for delays of 30 to 59 minutes, 100 per cent of the single fare for delays of 60 minutes or more and 100 per cent of the return fare for delays of two hours or more.

House demolished after court dispute

Builder watches as family development is bulldozed

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A BUILDER'S dream lies in ruins after a Town Hall dispute led to his development being demolished.

Troy Bricknell was fined £1,600 after being taken to Chelmsford Magistrates Court by Harlow Council after failing to deconstruct a separate building with multiple rooms and a shower to the rear of his house in St John's Avenue, Harlow.

The 40-year-old pleaded guilty to not complying with the enforcement notice.

The council took action after Mr Bricknell constructed the building without planning permission, needed as his house is within the Old Harlow Conservation Area.

After the court verdict Councillor Danny Purton, portfolio holder for environment, said: "Planning rules are there for everyone to follow. This development is out of place."

However, Mr Bricknell, a father-of-two, said: "I feel disappointed by the way Harlow Council has treated me. This has dragged me down for more than two years.

I have had nothing but worry on my mind.

"All I was thinking was that this would be good for my kids."

The self-employed builder said he had not intentionally done anything wrong.

In 2010 his request for planning permission was denied for being out of keeping within the area.

Mr Bricknell said he wanted the unit as extra space for his family and took advice from a council officer before trying again.

"I altered my plans and contacted Harlow Council again and reapplied under the permitted development route," he said.

"Representatives from the authority attended my address on a number of occasions to ensure the work complied with their standards and requirements."

In March 2013, Town Hall confirmed the construction was within building regulations.

Mr Bricknell said he had been advised by a council officer that this was adequate permission for him to build the revised unit. It turned out this was not the case.

He received a knock on the door from the council's planning department in February 2014 and

DEMOLITION: Troy Bricknell is angry his building was demolished was ordered to demolish the building.

After a two-and-a-half-year battle, Mr Bricknell is now watching his work being torn down before his eyes.

He added: "I pleaded guilty because I had no money to knock it down in that time.

"I have had to sell my flat in Arkwrights (in Harlow) to pay costs, but that took time. It has put me into debt. It's crippling me. They are pulling apart the future of my children."

He was additionally ordered to pay costs of £939.50 and a victim surcharge of £120.

IN BRIEF

Health check on the house

TWO event days are offering residents tips on staying well in winter with talks from nurses and health advisors.

Harlow Council and West Essex CCG are organising the sessions which will also include a free lunch and health check.

The first will be held today at the Leah Manning Centre, Park Lane, in Harlow, and the second will take place on Monday at Great Parndon Community Centre, Abercrombie Way, Harlow.

■ Both will be held from 10am to 2pm. To book a place call (01279) 446455

New bus route

A NEW bus route will serve several town wards on its way to Epping.

EOS London has launched service 87 which will run three times an hour from Harlow Bus Station (stops nine and ten) through Harberts Road, Staple Tye, Summers and Katherines before arriving at Epping where it will end.

■ For a full timetable visit www.eoslondon.com

Autumn sports

ALEPPO

Show we care

YET another depressing week in Aleppo, Syria.

Commentators despair at the lack of concrete action to halt the slaughter. To date, the best we have heard is a demonstration outside Russian embassies. Meanwhile, we spent a week and more exchanging inane comments about England's performance in the World Cup Qualifiers.

The man in the street can do more than just mutter to himself in front of the television set and indulge in the usual whinge at the expense of politicians. He can engage in good old-fashioned people power by applying pressure on the FA to withdraw the England team from the 2018 World Cup being hosted by Russia; a country that, together with her Syrian government allies, is killing and maiming countless children.

Would it really be such a hardship for fans to miss out just this once on a one-month football festival?

Our players do many kind and charitable deeds behind the scenes, and I feel confident they would be willing to sacrifice their opportunity to shine on the world football stage if it would save the lives of Syria's children; many the same age as our footballers' little ones.

So come on, Harlow: let's show the rest of the country that we care about the kids of Aleppo. Please tell the FA what you think right now.

Guy Mitchinson
Joyners Field, Harlow

BUSES

Pleasing news

VERY pleasing news for those living in the south west of Harlow with the new 87 bus route connecting Harlow to Epping.

For too long, the south west (Staple Tye, Summers, Katherine's) has been left in a black hole and requiring commuters to first travel into town in order to travel. It's certainly made my days easier!

If you have a photograph you have taken in or around Harlow that you would like to be featured in the Star, email a high-resolution, landscape copy in JPEG format, along with a brief description of where and when it was taken, to kerigh.palmer@hertssexnews.co.uk

Please remember to include your name and address and caption your mail subject box "Star POW".

NOISE

What is it?

CAN anyone tell me what is the cause of the heavy machinery noise, drilling and pounding that has been coming from the field at the back of the houses in Rye Hill and Longwood for the past several weeks?

I first noticed it during the night some weeks ago, and it was even going on at 11.30 on a Sunday night.

What the heck is it all about? Am I the only one that it's driving mad?

I did drive round to Longwood, albeit very late and dark, one night to have a look, but all I could see was light in the field and hear a lot of shouting.

Needless to say I didn't venture into the field (aliens and all that, you know!)

Can anyone tell me who or what is responsible just to put my mind at rest?

Paddock Mead resident

CHARITY

Peace of mind

HAVING your will written professionally can give you great peace of mind. Each November, you can use a local solicitor who has signed up to Will Aid and enjoy the added feel-good factor of giving to charity.

The Will Aid scheme means that, instead of paying your solicitor's fee, you will be invited to make a donation to charity. The Will Aid charities are the British Red Cross, ActionAid, Age UK, Christian Aid, NSPCC, Save the Children, SCIAF, Sightsavers and Trocaire.

Since being founded in 1988, Will Aid has enabled legal firms to raise over £17million for the charities. At the same time, the campaign has encouraged and helped more than 275,000 people to write their wills. This year, we hope to raise even more than 2015's total of over £1.1million.

The British Red Cross helps people in crisis, wherever and wherever they are. We are part of a global voluntary network, responding to natural disasters, conflicts and individual emergencies. We enable vulnerable people in the UK and overseas to prepare for and respond to emergencies in their own communities. And when the crisis is over, we help people to recover and move on with their lives.

When writing a will, your first priority will, of course, be to provide for loved ones, but many people choose to also include a gift to a cause they feel passionate about. Leaving just one per cent of your estate to the British Red Cross could make an enormous difference to people in crisis.

Please note that it is advisable to call your local solicitor soon to make an appointment as Will Aid is a popular service – just visit www.willaid.org.uk, call 0300 0309 558 or email enquiries@willaid.org.uk to find a solicitor near you. Alternatively, please do not hesitate to contact me directly on 01823 273710 if you have any queries at all.

Jacqui Randle
Community legacy manager,
British Red Cross

TRAVEL

Making aware

I READ with interest a reply to my original letter (Insurance rip-off).

I think the unnamed person is missing the point of my letter. The point was that everyone has to have holiday insurance before they fly out on holiday, but like me, how many people fully read the small print on these documents?

When something goes wrong, I expected to full refund of my monies lost.

I guess if you're claiming thousands, £110 is not a lot, but when the claim is under £1,000, I would be losing over ten per cent of my claim. I was writing to make people aware.

Mr B Hood
Brockles Mead, Harlow

EDUCATION

Support efforts

I READ the recent letter from Helena Mills, CEO of Burnt Mill Academy Trust (Star, October 6) with great interest.

The National Union of Teachers supports all efforts, from all schools in Harlow, to enrich education for young people. The steady increase in data-related and target-based education has marginalised the arts and traditional enrichment subjects.

With a dramatic increase in child mental health concerns in recent years, and a growing campaign against excessive workload, hours and bureaucracy for teachers – with most teachers currently working between 55-60 hours per week and leaving the profession in droves – we would support any proposals that can enhance students' school experience, as well as bring the ever-growing, and often unrealistically outrageous pressure on teachers within reasonable limits.

RANGERS CLUB

UNDER THREAT: The thresher shark is in danger of becoming extinct

Experts eager to protect most endangered species

WILDLIFE experts are meeting in South Africa to plan how to protect some of the world's most endangered species. One of the marine animals listed as potentially facing extinction is the thresher shark.

Known as the Indiana Jones of the sea, the shark is recognised by its long whip-like tail used to stun fish. As a result of this month's meeting, the thresher shark is now one of 13 species of the animal to be granted protection. The meetings are also exploring the dangers that elephants are currently facing. Every year, tens of thousands of the giants are killed for their ivory tusks and sold illegally around the world. The series of South African meetings have raised questions about whether it should be made illegal in every country to buy and sell ivory in a bid to help save one of our gentle giants.

Technical college students on the fast track to success

Students build micro cars

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

SIR CHARLES Kao UTC will host a competition for teams of young people racing micro-rocket cars.

The technical college in Velizy Avenue, Harlow, will welcome students from various schools who have been taking part in a BBC project.

Using the Beeb's micro:bit computer device, youngsters have been building a miniature car capable of powering to high speeds.

UTC students are looking forward to taking on their opponents. Bloodhound, the group organising the project, visited the college last week and gave students a tutorial.

Jordana Palmer and Bethany

Griffiths, Year 10 students, who joined UTC just this month, won a mock race with their machines.

Bloodhound is currently working on a full-size car capable of breaking the 1,000mph barrier and setting a land speed record.

Project members are visiting schools to interest students in science and technology careers.

Focus

Mike McKeaveney, principal of Sir Charles Kao UTC, said: "Our primary focus is to ensure that we have a wealth of young people entering STEM."

"Projects like this continue to inspire our students and in addition, support our unique curriculum. I look forward to seeing other local schools compete in the future."

FAST TIMES: Bloodhound project members visit students from Sir Charles Kao UTC in Harlow

PLEASED TO BE HERE: The Year 10 students are in the school's gifted and talented programme

First taste of uni life

STUDENTS from a Harlow school got a taste for campus life on a trip to Emmanuel College at Cambridge University.

Gifted and talented pupils in Year 10 from Passmores Academy, in Tracys Road, were given advice on how to best choose A levels and follow the right path into higher education.

Passmores students also toured the Fitzwilliam Museum. Teachers lead a group to Cambridge every year for an enjoyable and educational day.

GOING PLACES: Stewards Academy students visit a Finnish school

Academy's award means the world

STEWARDS Academy has been honoured for its multicultural work by education body the British Council.

The secondary school, in Parnall Road, Harlow, picked up the International School Award, which it will hold until 2019 in recognition of work to bring the world into the classroom.

The British Council, a group promoting international education, praised Stewards for forging links with foreign schools and developing a curriculum focused on exploring foreign cultures.

This year students took part in two exchange trips with Puistola School in Helsinki, while the academy previously held the honour from 2010 to this year.

On re-awarding Stewards, John Rolfe, of the British Council, said: "This school's fantastic international work has rightfully earned it this award."

'What is the price of a child's life', say parents

Lack of road safety signs called 'potential disaster'

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

PARENTS are pleading for road safety infrastructure to be installed at a primary school before it's too late.

After a near-miss last week the community around Pemberley Academy, Hodings Road, Harlow, has started a petition to demand County Hall takes preventative action.

The primary opened in September last year but has no crossings and railings to protect children or even a sign to warn drivers the school is there, some of whom use Hodings Road as a shortcut.

Disaster

Neil Coster, head teacher of Pemberley Academy, said: "It is a potential disaster. Last week a parent of a Year 1 child was nearly knocked over."

"We have lots of children outside the school, sometimes they are on scooters. It is a matter of time before there is an accident."

Iain MacLeod, chairman of the governors, joined parents John Phillips and Kevin Crook in starting a petition which now has 160 names and calls for Essex County Council to respond to their plight.

The three men, who all have children at the school, said they have contacted Harlow Council and been directed to the county council but have heard nothing back.

They fear it could take until April, when the council's budget is reset, for anything to be done.

The petition is a last resort for the parents, but Mr MacLeod said: "We need this now, it needs to be straight away."

Mr Phillips added: "What is the price of a child's life? We are not prepared to wait until April."

Pemberley Academy opened to pupils in Reception, Year 1 and 2 in September 2015 and the school has never had the traffic safety features seen outside most Harlow primaries.

The county council is responsible for installing such measures as the school does not own the land in front of the gates.

A spokesman for Essex County Council said the authority is aware of the issue.

He said: "The Harlow Local Highways Panel has agreed to carry out a feasibility study to understand what is required and what will be most effective.

DAD'S ARMY: Parents Kevin Crook, Iain MacLeod, John Phillips and head teacher Neil Coster

"In the meantime the council is looking at alternative means by which the necessary signage can be installed."

Despite this Mr Coster said discussions have not taken place.

He continued: "For a while we played tennis with the different authorities. People did not want to take responsibility for it."

He also said councillors had been wary of the school opening due to traffic problems.

IN BRIEF

Backing fair pay campaign

A WORKERS group called for better job conditions on an international day dedicated to "decent work".

Harlow Trades Union Council backed European counterparts in demanding politicians prioritise the needs of workers to receive adequate pay.

The town TUC supported a statement released by European Capitals Trade Union Network which read: "Europe needs to reinforce its social model promoting social cohesion and harmonising progress."

Spooky twist

HALF term will be given a Halloween twist at Science Alive at the Time Machine Gallery at Harlow Leisurezone.

From Monday to Friday daily workshops will be held to create gooey slime, whizz buggies, whooshy rockets and splat bags.

Workshops at the Second Avenue centre cost £1.50 per session. For more information call (01279) 413412 or email info@science-alive.co.uk

Live music day

A CELEBRATION day will offer residents live music and entertainment at Moot House in The Stow, Harlow.

Mark Hall and Netteswell Community Association is hosting the free event from 3pm to 11.30pm on Saturday. Robert Halfon, Harlow's MP, will attend the event as the guest of honour.

For more information call (01279) 424074.

Plans for PHE build shown to 200 people

LATEST plans for Public Health England's headquarters and science hub were seen by more than 200 at a public exhibition.

PHE hopes to move into the former GlaxoSmithKline site in Pinnacles, Harlow, in a £400million project, and a cross-section of residents visited Harlow Leisurezone to see proposals and ask questions.

In the three-day exhibition, the health body showed information about jobs, apprenticeships and sustainable travel.

Dr Tim Harry, PHE programme director, said: "This allowed us to show plans and describe how they have progressed since our first exhibition in May, taking on board comments and feedback."

Hospice invites businesses to join group

ST CLARE Hospice is inviting businesses to join a group that offers advertising opportunities and the chance to raise money.

The charity, which provides specialist care for people with terminal or life-limiting illnesses, has started its Business Club to engage with firms in West Essex and East Hertfordshire.

Businesses can subscribe to one of three levels of membership. For an annual fee, starting from £5,000, members can then enjoy advertising and marketing through St Clare and networking opportunities at their breakfast meetings.

Helping St Clare financially can also help firms meet their corporate responsibility targets.

The hospice requires more than £4million a year to operate, but businesses provide just four per cent of their total donations.

Amy Jacobs, St Clare corporate partnerships manager, said: "The Business Club offers its members the chance to step up their responsible business agenda and really support the growth and strategic development of St Clare."

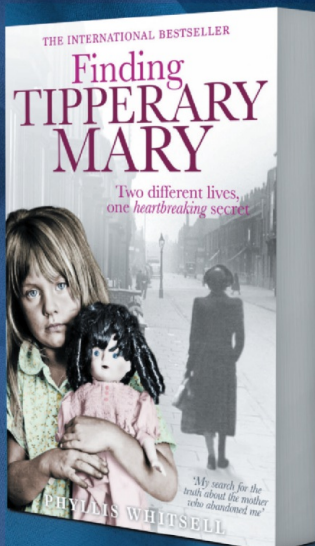

"The Business Club is not just about doing good, however, and offers real tangible business benefits."

For more information, call Ms Jacobs on (01279) 773758 or email amy.jacobs@stclarehospice.org.uk

Holidaymakers should not be afraid of travel

MEP reassures people about terrorism

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

FEAR of terror attacks should not put people off foreign travel, according to an East of England MEP.

Geoffrey Van Orden has spoken out to calm concerns after a study found 40 per cent of East of England travellers are worried about terrorism affecting their plans.

The Conservative Member of European Parliament said: "The fear of being a victim of terrorism is much worse than the likelihood of this happening."

Disrupt

"We cannot let concerns about terrorists disrupt our lives, otherwise we might never set foot outside our homes."

"Of course, I very much understand the concern people might have, in particular when travelling abroad."

"Therefore, the foreign travel advice from the Foreign Office should always be followed, and in any case people should take common-sense precautions."

DON'T PANIC: Geoffrey Van Orden

The survey, which was conducted by YouGov, found 16 per cent were unsure if their insurance company would pay out in the event of a terror attack.

In addition, only 21 per cent of respondents said they fully read the small print of their insurance policy.

Mr Van Orden continued: "On a practical point, there are plenty of reliable providers of travel insurance."

"It is always advisable to take out appropriate insurance for your travel and to ensure that you have the relevant phone numbers and policy details easily to hand."

"You should also know how to contact the local British embassy or consulate."

The study was a concern to Kate Huet, managing director of insurance firm International Travel and Healthcare.

She said: "Research has shown terrorism is high on the list of concerns and is being taken very seriously when people are thinking about their travel plans."

"While it is unsurprising people are concerned, it is worrying so many people misunderstand what travel insurance covers, leaving them with no financial protection should an act of terrorism occur close to their proposed destination if they no longer want to travel."

Security a concern as website is taken down

THE security of Princess Alexandra Hospital's website was compromised last month, forcing the page offline.

Chiefs at the hospital in Hamstel Road, Harlow, have reassured the public that no confidential data was stored on the site and therefore records will not fall into the wrong hands.

A spokesman from the PAH NHS Trust said: "As the website is hosted externally there are no concerns about the security of the trust's internally hosted systems and the trust is very proud of its compliance with security standards set by the Department of Health."

"The trust has also reported the issue to NHS Digital and the Department of Health as is required by NHS frameworks and the trust has reviewed this internally."

The incident happened on Sunday, September 9, and PAH staff are working with the company which develops and hosts the website to ensure this does not happen again.

Since then visitors have received a white screen with the message "pah.nhs.uk is undergoing essential maintenance".

■ Until the website is brought back online residents have been advised to call PAH on (01279) 444455 or visit NHS Choices at www.nhs.co.uk

Hunt's on for the town's best designed buildings

Nominations are open for the first architectural design awards

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A COMPETITION to find the town's best designed buildings officially began with the launch of The Harlow Architectural Design Awards 2016.

Councillor Jon Clempner, the leader of Harlow Council, unveiled two trophies which will be awarded to the winner of the residential and non-residential building categories.

Throughout this month the public is invited to take part in a vote which will find a winner for both awards.

All nominations received by Monday, October 31, will be considered for a shortlist in each category.

Winner

In November, all have a chance to vote from those shortlisted. The results will influence the decision of an expert panel, which will determine the ultimate winner for a ceremony in January next year.

The Architectural Design Awards (HADA) is organised by Harlow Civic Society and will celebrate new town designs but also discuss how buildings could look in the future.

Paul McLintic, secretary of Harlow Civic Society, said: "We're delighted to have officially launched the Harlow Architectural Design Awards and see so many faces supporting this important project.

"Through these awards we hope to encourage a fresh appreciation of our heritage of town planning and architectural design.

"This is so that future developments will be as sympathetic and harmonious with the landscape and the way people want to live."

Launch

The HADA launch party at Parndon Mill, Harlow, on Thursday last week, was also attended by Mary Parsons, group director for award sponsors Places for People, John Graham, an architect of Harlow's master plan and Julie Palmer, editor of the Star.

Subsequent HADA ceremonies will celebrate buildings completed within the preceding year with the custom made glass trophies given to the winning architect to keep for the whole 12 months.

No to chocolate for the kids as they raise money

Children to give up confectionery to help out baby with heart issues

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

CHILDREN have given up on the sweeter things in life to raise money for the family of a poorly baby.

Madleigh Collins, eight, of Bush Fair, Harlow, is leading a team of six youngsters giving up sweets and chocolate for a fortnight as her 13-month-old cousin, Freddie Poole, prepares for heart surgery.

The baby has a double aortic arch, a rare cardiovascular condition that causes chest compression and could lead to breathing problems later in life if left untreated.

His parents, Michaela and Adam Poole, who live in Tany's Dell, Harlow, have made enormous personal sacrifices and taken unpaid leave to care for their son.

Sweets

Madleigh and her friends Mason Wilkinson, Layla Mooney, Molly Mooney, Ryan Corbally and Madison Corbally hope to raise at least £500 for the Poole family.

Charlene Wood, 29, Madleigh's mother, said: "It will be very hard for her as she loves sweets and chocolate.

"It has been going really well, I advertised it on Facebook and some of my friends have children who know her and asked to join in.

"We are just hoping to raise a little to support them, and we're hoping for about £500 or £600.

"I am very proud of them for doing this."

Madleigh, an only child who attends William Martin Junior School, Tawneys Road, Harlow, knows her fundraising companions through her mother's friends.

Ms Wood, a nursery nurse, added: "They all know Freddie and want to help him.

"We are hoping, as a family, to return to normal after the operation"

Store sells out-of-date items in its superstore

SAINSBURY'S was forced to apologise after selling out-of-date frozen items.

A resident, who did not wish to be named, found and took photos of items in the freezers of the store in Fourth Avenue, Harlow, which were up to six months past their sell-by date.

He took action when his wife fell ill after eating a product he later discovered should never have been sold.

A Sainsbury's spokesman said: "We have apologised to the customer, who has kindly accepted a gesture of goodwill.

"We have robust policies in place to prevent the sale of out-of-date products and we're investigating this incident with the Harlow store."

The man said he was given a voucher for the shop and will continue to go there but still has concerns.

He said: "It's not rocket science, it's stock rotation. It is a major concern to think that their 'robust policies' don't seem to be working.

"There were products in there that were best before April 2016. It's worrying that there was a week window where customers could have been buying things that are out of date.

"It is just not something you expect from such a large supermarket chain, it's something you would be more likely to find at the corner shop."

JANE'S dad died in April. He had gone into hospital to have an operation which was supposed to make him better, but he never came home. Jane sought help. She had insisted to everyone that she was "fine" but she knew she did not feel fine at all. Jane felt so angry and missed her dad so much.

Jane was put in contact with Cruse Bereavement Care. Cruse is a national charity that helps over 100,000 people every year, when they experience a death of someone close. Jane was provided with a trained bereavement volunteer. She felt she could speak openly and honestly about her pain and anger, and about how much Jane hurt and how much she missed her father. Jane was supported through the most difficult period of her life. Whilst she still misses her father, Jane understands that she can also live life – to cry and also be happy sometimes.

CRAMMED to bursting with toe-tapping pop ditties courtesy of Simon & Garfunkel, Lionel Richie, Donna Summer and Justin Timberlake, Trolls is 92 minutes of glitter-dusted, computer-animated joy.

Based on the fluffy-haired good luck trolls designed by Thomas Dam, which have inspired numerous fads since the early 1960s, Walt Dohrn and Mike Mitchell's musical misadventure unleashes a colour-saturated assault on the senses from the opening frames.

In the brief moments the film does sit still, the script gently tugs heartstrings by promoting its messages of self-acceptance and inner fortitude, including an obvious yet poignant use of a Cyndi Lauper ballad to hammer home the idea that happiness comes from within.

Once a year on the Trollstice, a race of disgruntled ogres called Bergens unlock their inner joy by feasting on shiny trolls.

King Gristle Sr (voiced by John Cleese) and his drooling head Chef (Christine Baranski) lead the festivities but the Bergens' reverie is cut short when the trolls, led by benevolent King Peppy (Jeffrey Tambor), escape to a new home.

Twenty years after the great escape, Princess Poppy (Kendrick) has succeeded as ruler of the trolls, who sing, dance, enjoy group hugs and feverishly glue felt and paper into their scrapbooks. Everyone except for eternal pessimist Branch (Justin Timberlake), who lives in a Bergen-proof subterranean bunker crammed with 10 years of rations.

When the Bergen Chef discovers the new troll village and captures several of Poppy's friends, including zen master Creek (Russell Brand) and Biggie (James Corden), the princess pleads with Branch for assistance. Overcoming their initial differences, Poppy and Branch embark on a rescue mission to the Bergen castle where they play matchmakers to Prince Gristle Jr and scullery maid Bridget (Zoëy Deschanel).

Trolls shimmies and sways like an animated version of Pitch Perfect, relentlessly plundering contemporary songbooks to verbalise characters' emotions.

Anna Kendrick's vocal performance fizzles and she gels wonderfully with Timberlake.

Jonathan Aibel and Glenn Berger's screenplay is simplistic and the trolls' and Bergens' journeys of self-discovery are largely linear but while Trolls might be lacking sophistication and cute in-jokes it's the cinematic equivalent of a mouth crammed with popping candy.

Loach's scathing portrait of benefits system

I, Daniel Blake

DRAMA: (15) 100 mins
Director: Ken Loach
Starring: Dave Johns, Hayley Squires, Dylan McKiernan, Briana Shann, Mick Laffey

WARWICKSHIRE-born director Ken Loach scales the cold, hard face of Britain's over-burdened welfare system in a grimly compelling portrait of the bureaucratic red tape that separates hard-working and desperate folk from the benefits they need to survive.

I, Daniel Blake is a quiet yet impassioned call to arms, centred on two people from different worlds, who have fallen through the cracks and are largely ignored by society.

Scripted by Loach's long-time collaborator Paul Laverty, it's a character study of mordant humour and harsh, unflinching reality that stokes our anger and frustration alongside the characters as they meet endless resistance to their efforts.

Thus the eponymous 59-year-old joiner has to spend 35 hours a week applying for jobs that he can't take because of his medical condition.

I, Daniel Blake might be glaringly obvious in its intentions, including at least one scene that is unnecessarily manipulative, but there is fire in the film's belly.

Johns and Squires deliver riveting performances including a harrowing

HARD TIMES: Dave Johns as Daniel Blake and Hayley Squires as Katie scene at a food bank, which lands with the force of a sledgehammer to the sternum.

There but for the grace of God stumble all of us.

Embrace your inner nerd

Taking a swipe at reality shows

EASTENDERS actress Donna-Leigh Chapman, above, will star in a thought-provoking production that asks whether reality television has gone too far.

Factor 2025, which will be performed at Rhodes Arts Centre in Bishop's Stortford, on Saturday at 7.30pm, takes a swipe at Simon Cowell and his media empire.

Comedian Johnny Tait wrote the plot, which follows glamorous performer Mary-Anne, who takes her chances on a new TV talent show. But producers demand she severs ties with her twin-brother, who has learning difficulties and is dependent on her. Living out the show's script, Mary-Anne lives the high life but inevitably pays a personal cost eventually. Harlow-born Donna-Leigh also stars.

SOFIE Hagen does not hide her self-consciousness and nerdy identity. In fact, the comedienne is very open about her self-described weirdness and says the aim of her new tour is to find an audience she can relate with.

Could she find her crowd in Harlow? Her national tour Shimmer Shatter will stop at Harlow Playhouse on Thursday, November 10.

"I hope the people that come to this show will come back," said the Dane, who now lives in London. "In every single town there are introverted, nerdy, warm-hearted people, and if I could find them and have some in the audience that would be amazing."

The 27-year-old has been trying to make her name in the UK for the past four years, but really came to prominence at the Edinburgh Festival Fringe last summer. After securing rave reviews she has featured as a guest on BBC television, radio and Comedy Central.

This is her first national tour, and she is feeling excited but unsure of exactly what to expect.

"It's quite interesting," she continued. "I tell people I am going to these places on the tour and they make these faces, and I have no idea what that means as I don't know anything about these areas.

"People have been emailing me some information about their town in advance, it's so nice.

"It's very exciting and a lot of shows are beginning to sell out. I'm excited about places where I am not sure how to pronounce the name correctly, like Frome and, is it Har-low?"

"Yes", I tell her, and she laughs. "My biggest fear is that I will get something like that wrong on stage."

For Sofie, the language barrier was never an issue, with English taught almost from birth in Denmark.

"It was not the biggest of challenges," she said. "Nobody speaks Danish so we have to adapt to the world. In every place I have toured they have said you nailed the British humour, or the Canadian humour, but I did not do anything differently.

"I think it is an emotional thing rather than a national thing. I talk about my feelings and my weirdness."

Sofie is confident and funny, but also kind and sensitive. She said her love for comedy developed in her teenage years when watching stand-up videos provided a relief from her mental health struggles. I'm keen to find out how a shy girl made the transition into the daunting, unforgiving world of stand-up.

"I have always loved comedy. As a young teenager with depression it was the only way I could laugh. It is all I have ever wanted to do.

"The first two years I started doing comedy I kept wanting to look behind me, it did not make sense that people were looking at me."

On Shimmer Shatter she added: "It has all the elements to make it exciting, of course there is love and sex and drama but it is also about being a person who struggles to deal with life.

"I don't feel cool, I feel a bit of a weirdo."

■ The performance will begin at 8pm in Theatre 2. Tickets are now on sale for £12 or £10 for students. For bookings, call (01279) 431945 or visit www.playhouseharlow.com

Piano trio perform at St John's

ENGLISH Piano Trio will perform Haydn, Beethoven and Tchaikovsky numbers at St John's Arts and Recreation Centre this month.

The classical three-piece is formed of Jane Faulkner on violin, Pal Banda on cello and Timothy Ravenscroft on piano. They will play at the centre in St John's Walk, Harlow, on Saturday at 7.30pm. Tickets can be bought for £12.

The ARC also welcomes The Montagnana, a flute, piano and cello trio on Friday for a lunchtime recital at 1.30pm. There are no tickets but a collection will be made at the end.

■ For more information, visit www.stjohnsarc.org.uk

Frog Prince hops into Harlow

A HANDSOME prince is humbled in Half Term Productions' family performance at The Victoria Hall Theatre, Harlow.

Simon Mawdsley writes and, alongside Caroline Petherbridge, directs The Frog Prince, which will be at the Bury Road venue from Monday to Friday next week with two performances a day at 10.30am and 1pm.

The royal protagonist is not impressed when a hapless fairy accidentally turns him into a frog. But the spell cannot be reversed unless he wins the heart of the spoilt princess.

Suitable for youngsters aged two to ten, the show combines comedy, puppets, songs, dance and slapstick.

■ Tickets are £9 for adults and £7 for children. For bookings, call 0333 666 3366 or visit www.halftermproductions.ticketsource.co.uk

Cracking ideas

Hairy Bikers Si King and Dave Myers have long been fans of the humble chicken and egg. They tell Kate Whiting about the inspirations behind their latest recipe book and TV series currently being shown on BBC2

WHY did the chicken cross the road, roll in the mud, come back across the road, and then cross the road again and roll in the mud again?" asks, Dave Myers, one half of The Hairy Bikers, eyes glinting.

"Cos he was a dirty double crosser!"

Spending time in the company of Myers and his good mate Si King is pure laughter-filled joy, particularly when they're so enthused by their latest project. BBC Two's Hairy Bikers – Chicken & Egg has seen the boys travel the world in search of the best recipes using, you guessed it, chicken or eggs, and now there's a cookbook to accompany the series.

"It's always a book that's been on the boil, really," says Myers. "To a cook, they're such useful ingredients. We've done some stand-alone cookbooks that have been very successful, like Great Curries, Perfect Pies, Meat Feasts, so why not Chicken & Egg?"

"With Meat Feasts, we were a bit stuck for puddings, but this does tick all the boxes, from soups to starters, desserts, baking, you've got the lot with chicken and eggs."

Chicken history

Filming the TV show took them to Israel, where they learned about the social history of chicken and visited the first place in the world it was eaten.

King explains: "We went on this archaeological dig in Jerusalem and down these caves where they'd found the first evidence of people eating chicken, you could see knife marks on the thigh bones of these chickens that were around before Christ.

"At this market in Tel Aviv, we put together a mezze platter and we had Syrian, Iraqi, Bulgarian, Venezuelan, Iranian, all doing something very different with chicken. All these different cultures had taken the same product and made this fantastic cuisine, it was very exciting."

While they both have fond childhood memories of chicken

Sunday roasts, the meat really came into its own when they turned to healthy eating in 2012, followed by a slew of Hairy Dieters books.

"We used chicken a lot in the diet books," says Myers. "You take the skin off and the whole chicken is between 700 and 900 calories, great if you're on a diet. If I were making tandoori, you can get the spice mix and fat-free yoghurt, marinate half a chicken, cook it over charcoal or bake it in the oven. You could actually have salad and half a chicken for under 500 calories."

Here's a Hairy Bikers recipe to crack on with...

Peruvian Chicken Soup with Quinoa

SERVES 4-6

Ingredients

1.5L chicken stock
4 chicken thighs or 2 chicken breasts, skin on, bone in 2tbsp olive oil
1 onion, thinly sliced
2 celery sticks, thinly sliced
1 red pepper, deseeded and

TWO OF A KIND: The Hairy Bikers Si King and Dave Myers sliced

100g quinoa, rinsed and soaked for 5 minutes
2 garlic cloves, crushed
1tbsp amarillo chilli sauce, or similar mild chilli sauce
1 bay leaf
1 sprig of fresh oregano
1 large sweet potato, diced
Large bunch of coriander, roughly chopped
Lime wedges, to serve
Sea salt and freshly ground black pepper

Method

Pour the chicken stock into a large saucepan and bring to the boil, then add the chicken. Turn the heat down low and simmer gently for about 10 minutes, until the chicken is cooked through. Skim off any foam that collects on the surface, then remove the chicken and set aside. Strain the broth through a sieve lined with a double layer of muslin or cheesecloth into a bowl, then pour back into the saucepan.

HEARTY: Peruvian Chicken Soup with Quinoa

Pictures: Orion

Heat the olive oil in the same pan and add the onion, celery and red pepper. Cook them over a medium heat for about five minutes, just to start the softening process, then add the quinoa. Continue to toast the quinoa until it starts to smell nutty, then add the garlic and chilli sauce. Cook for another minute or so.

Pour the chicken stock back into the saucepan, then add the herbs and season with salt and pepper. Bring the soup to the boil, then turn the heat down and simmer for 15 minutes. Add the sweet potato and simmer for a further five minutes.

Remove the skin and bone from the chicken and cut the flesh into slices. Add them to the soup and simmer for a few minutes to warm through. Taste for seasoning and add more if necessary. Remove the bay leaf and oregano, then stir in the chopped coriander. Serve in bowls with lime wedges on the side.

■ Chicken & Egg by The Hairy Bikers is published by Orion Books, priced £22.

ONE LAST JOB

The gripping story of Brian Reader, Britain's most prolific, old-school crook

Branded 'The Master' and 'a Gentleman Thief' Brian is a true British crime character. Gang insiders, family, friends and detectives talk for the first time about Reader's six-decade career. The authors reveal the Hatton Garden gang's links to an unsolved gangland murder, bent cops, police supergrasses and an alleged establishment cover-up. The book also includes new details about Basil, dubbed 'The Ghost' after he became the only gang member to escape justice.

PROPERTY OF THE WEEK

Family home that is packed with potential

THIS well-equipped three-bedroom terraced home is a real steal with bags of potential in a sought-after part of Harlow.

The modern kitchen, complete with wood-panelled work surfaces and plenty of space for all your needs, is the highlight of the property and comes fully-fitted with a range of appliances.

But the spacious living room is a real highlight, too, providing an open space for family time, but also perfect for a young couple.

The charming garden sits in a secluded spot backing onto a lush wooded area and is big enough for games with the kids or a large family barbecue.

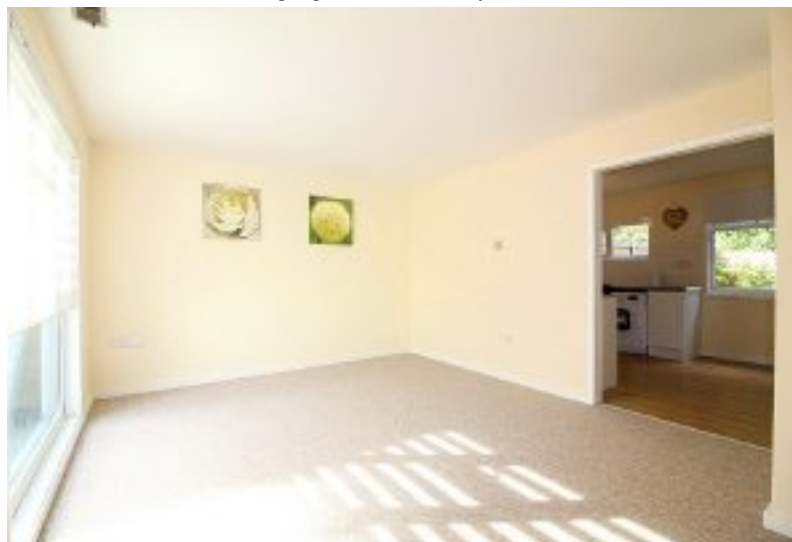

The front driveway provides ample parking space while the garage offers extra security for any spare cars.

The property also boasts an extended porch and an additional reception room, perfect for hosting guests.

The house is situated in The Maples, Harlow, and is on the market for £339,995.

PROPERTY TALK

&gt;with NIGEL LEWIS

Gore's Italian cliff-hanger

AUTHOR screenplay writer, intellectual and activist Gore Vidal was no stranger to controversy. He locked horns with actor Charlton Heston over his script for 1959 epic Ben Hur and courted controversy with his 1948 novel The City And The Pillar, which tackled homosexuality head on during a period of extreme conservatism.

He was also famous for his public and often violent spats with other leading American writers including Truman Capote and Norman Mailer.

Such notoriety persuaded Vidal to leave the US during the 1960s and move to Italy where he continued to work as a writer and screen player.

His home in Italy was La Rondinaia, a villa originally built for an English banker in the 1930s. It clings to the vertiginous Amalfi Coast in the region of Salerno, a strip of mountainous coastline that's both a UNESCO World Heritage Site and a hugely popular tourist destination, particularly among Americans.

Vidal lived with his partner Howard Austen at La Rondinaia for 30 years and entertained many of Hollywood's then A-listers including Lauren Bacall, Paul Newman, Susan Sarandon and even Hillary Clinton, before ill health forced him to return to America.

His footprint can still be seen at the property. He installed its pool from which bathers can enjoy panoramic views of the coast.

The four-storey property has 38 rooms including six bedrooms and seven bathrooms as well as a terrace, olive groves and extensive gardens.

■ It is for sale at approximately £19million through www.gate-away.com

HOT GOSSIP

It's got a nice landing

EDDIE the Eagle is the only British Olympic competitor to find fame and fortune from coming last in his chosen sport.

His persistence and hard work at mastering ski jumping during the run-up to the 1988 Calgary Olympics, and subsequent plucky performance during two competitions, garnered Edwards millions of fans back at home and across the world.

But there's more to Eddie than meets the eye. Although he's a source of amusement here, before he took up jumping Edwards narrowly missed getting into the national downhill squad and is taken seriously in his adopted homes of Finland and Canada.

He's also recently been working in TV, including commentating on Channel 4's reality TV programme The Jump and also participating in a similar ITV programme called Splash with Tom Daley.

And this year a film based loosely on his Olympic story was released starring Taron Egerton and Hugh Jackman. Some of the scenes portraying Eddie's earlier life in Britain were filmed on a street in Harlsden, North London that has become a regular location for movie and music video makers.

As well Eddie the Eagle, Stephenson Street has featured in 1965 movie The Iceman starring Michael Caine, 2002 TV drama series Foyle's War, and the 1982 video for Madness's chart topper Our House.

■ A home is now for sale on Stephenson Street with agent emooov (03339 392719) for £595,000. A recently-renovated two-bedroom terraced house with a garden at the rear.

Home to very successful folk

FOLK-rock band Mumford and Sons' second studio album, Babel, has so far been their most successful topping the charts in both the UK and the US last year and selling over two-million copies. It has also been the UK's fastest-selling rock album of the decade so far.

The band has come a long way since it formed in 2007. It now has three hugely successful albums under its belt, is internationally successful and has been given several gongs including a Brit and six Grammy Awards.

Mumford & Sons has also headlined at Glastonbury and its key members are collectively said to be worth £54million, while founding musician Marcus Mumford recently married actress Carey Mulligan.

Not bad for a bunch of former students from SW London.

For the album cover of Babel, the four founders – Marcus Mumford, Ben Lovett, Winston Marshall and Ted Dwane – all chose to pose in Charles Baker Place, a former industrial site in Wandsworth, SW London.

But the band might not recognise it now. Developer

Chester Row has moved in and is renovating the existing Victorian buildings and constructing new homes as well.

Dedicated Mumford & Sons fans can snap up the properties now for sale including three-bedroom cottages, four-bedroom mews houses and five-bedroom townhouses.

Prices at the development start at £1.175million and rise to £2.7million for the larger properties.

Bling is the thing this autumn

Salvator, a classic ikat design from Prestigious Textiles. A jacquard weave from their Rainforest collection

BLING, there's no other word for it. At all the autumn design shows, glinting out of corners, on furniture, walls, curtains lamps, you name it, there was shiny stuff.

Some of it discreet and sophisticated, some more Kim Kardashian – hot and glossy! And mostly gold, though all metallics were in evidence. After the long, long reign of silver being the only way to do metallics, we've seen a gradual emergence of firstly bronze and currently rose gold, but now finally my old gold bathroom taps are back in fashion! Well, maybe not, but certainly gold was in abundance.

Some of the most beautiful designs were for walls – who needs art when you can cover an entire wall or room in these gleaming glinting papers?

Brian Yates has always had a small stable of metallic wall coverings, but their new ranges take it to a new level – handsome two-tone effects and even coverings incorporating capiz shells. Who doesn't want bivalve molluscs adorning their walls?

Another company, Tektura, specialises mainly in commercial designs but is available to all-comers, and is getting more adventurous with its designs and commissioning some big names to up its design credentials – Timorous Beasties for one. Their new ranges display bling from a hint of a background tint to full on 'wow.' This trend can be easier to use than you think. Yes, a little can go a long way – a great way of lighting up a windowless back hall for example, but some of the designs are subtle and can be used to add a rich textured effect to a dining room, looking especially good in soft light.

Fabrics are an easy way to add a sheen too – it needn't be metallic, just the sheen of long threads. Showcased at Decorex were the New Craftsmen, a collective of artists/craftspeople – proving that the handmade and unique is still a strong trend.

I particularly loved the work of Georgia Kemball who weaves loose, long-threaded fabrics that look as good when pulled and slightly shredded as when pristine. The way the fabrics hold and reflect the light is glorious. These are fabrics that look best on what would normally be considered to be the reverse side.

A second trend is the increasing reference to art, particularly abstract painting and painting techniques. Designers have always been inspired by art, but it seems to be more overt this year. I suspect that this is in part building on that strong handmade trend I mentioned above – a continuum of craft to art.

As one of the biggest players in the field, Harlequin is a good barometer, and their new rug collection has a number of painterly daub designs. Korla calls itself a contemporary heritage design brand creating fabrics for homes with personality, and its Jackson Pollock-inspired splatter fabric would inject a little character into any sitting room!

Ikat patterns have a long history and re-emerge with regularity, mainly because they have a classic quality and are always attractive. They appear this year under a number of different guises – Korla's Inkart is a simple and unpretentious contemporary take on the style, whereas the sumptuous Salvator jacquard by Prestigious Textiles is more classic and decorative.

Prestigious also feature a design which crosses over the two trends, being an ikat design that has been freely translated with an abstract painterly technique

If you type 'autumn design trends' into a search engine, you'll find that everyone has a different set of trends – from the small trends of harvest festival or textured lampshades to the larger concepts of creating calm or considered luxury. Which just goes to show that you shouldn't take any of us too seriously and design your home to suit only you!

A painterly ikat, this time in velvet. Prestigious Textiles, Bohemia from their Decadence range

This beautifully moody leaf design is the epitome of refined bling. Rye, designed by Cushtom exclusively for Tektura

Mirror Books

How does an ordinary housewife become a notorious international criminal?

When Anne Darwin told the world - and her family - that her husband, John, had disappeared while canoeing in the North Sea, her life changed forever. She had just lied to the police, the press, her friends and neighbours and her own sons. While her husband hid next door, Anne claimed the life insurance - then left with him to start a new life in Panama. For the first time, Anne opens up about her part in the scheme; her marriage, her harrowing time behind bars and the runaway train of lies that followed their plan to defraud insurance companies with the aid of a canoe.

'It felt like the right time to tell my own story, in my own words...'

SPORTY AND PRACTICAL

TESTED DS 4 Crossback BlueHdi 120

By Jon Smith

We just love our cars to stand out. Years ago there were go-faster stripes, racing door mirrors and rear spoilers. Well, we still have the spoilers, though most are more subtle now. But with SUVs dominating the motoring scene, the options to stylise your family runabout are almost endless.

DS – or Citroen, as it once was – has taken style-tweaking to a new level with the DS 4 Crossback, a sort of crossover hatch with raised ground clearance, wheel arch spats and roof rails but without the benefit of four wheel drive.

Shiny black alloy wheels and matching external mirrors add the finishing touches.

To be honest, so few owners want all-paw adhesion in a mid-sized hatchback that it wouldn't have been an economical proposition to manufacture it as an option.

And the big bonus is that in BlueHdi 120 form as tried here, it is one of the most frugal five-seater saloons around.

With a CO2 level of just 103g/km it attracts low tax and a commendable official fuel consumption of 72.4mpg. Even fairly heavy footed drivers will get well over 50mpg in everyday running. The fuel tank is a generous 60litre (13.2 gallons) allowing a range of more than 600 miles between filling up.

Power comes from the shared Peugeot Citroen 1.6-litre, 118bhp turbo diesel which offers reasonably brisk acceleration – 0 to 60mph in 10.9 seconds – alongside strong high gear performance. A bit rattly at idle, the unit soon quietsens down and at cruising speed there's just a distant hum.

One of the benefits of raising the body height by 40mm is an improvement in ride, partly due to softer springs. Sure, there's a tad more body roll than the normal DS 4, but this is more than offset by greater comfort over patchy surfaces.

The cabin is smart and stylish with a distinct premium feel. A seven-inch touch screen dispenses with many of the buttons and switches and the fascia abounds in quality, tactile plastic mouldings. Standard kit includes Apple CarPlay, DAB radio, keyless ignition, reversing camera and sat-nav. Dual-zone air con is also included in the £23,595 price tag.

Visibility for front seat passengers is good, especially so if you take advantage of the moveable sun visors which slide back to deepen the front screen.

Those in the back may find their environment more claustrophobic due to the rising waistline of the car and its sloping roof. Reversing can be tricky as you peer through the shallow rear window.

Another penalty arising from the DS's rakish shape is the somewhat restricted boot space. The cargo area beneath the parcel shelf will accommodate 385 litres of luggage which is less than rivals such as the Vauxhall Astra and Peugeot 308.

The six-speed manual gearbox is precise and quick to use and the clutch is pleasantly light.

It may not be quite as roomy as some rivals, but the DS 4 succeeds in looking characterful and individual while losing nothing in terms of practicality.

The Hertfordshire & Essex High School and Science College

FACILITIES MANAGER

Full-time: 37 hours per week/Salary: from £30,000

Required as soon as possible to manage the premises of this prestigious, high-performing girls' secondary school on a day to day basis, reporting to the School Business Manager who has overall responsibility for the school's premises and finances. The role will include management of caretaking and maintenance services for the school, delegating work as appropriate. We are looking for someone who has a proven track record of facilities' management, including excellent administrative and communication skills and with experience of managing staff. The postholder will be personable, take a pride in providing a clean, safe and attractive environment for staff and students and will have good premises' maintenance skills. Previous experience preferred, but not essential. Previous applicants need not apply.

The school is committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children and young people and expects all members of staff to share this commitment. A check by the Disclosure and Barring Service, alongside other employment checks, is required.

Further details and an application form are on the school website: <http://www.hertsandessex.herts.sch.uk/employment-opportunities/10872.html> or from the school.

Do you really know the man you married?

"I urge you to take reasonable steps in order that you are equipped to enter what is, in emotional terms, a hard-hat area."

Alice, a doctor and mother of two, tells the story of her marriage to a man hiding a terrible secret. Her feelings and fears are laid bare in a moving and honest way that will stay with you for a long time to come.

Musical

YAMAHA Pacifica 112J Guitar This electric guitar is in truly excellent condition. My son's ambitions to learn the guitar did not last 5 minutes and as such the instrument has very low usage. The body is dark green, and it is a right handed guitar. The Yamaha Pacifica guitar is widely promoted as being a great introduction to the world of electric guitars. If an Amplifier is required please see my separate advert for a Marshall MG 15DFX Amplifier which is compatible with the Yamaha Pacifica guitar. Equally my separate advert for a Ritter padded guitar case. £99.00 07806 667275

MARSHALL MG 15DFX Amplifier Excellent condition, hardly used due to my son's very short lived ambitions to play the guitar, with no scratches or marks on the Amplifier. Was bought to be used with a Yamaha Pacifica 112J guitar which is for sale in a separate advert. £55.00 07806 667275

RITTER Padded Guitar Case Hardly used, and in excellent condition. Heavily padded for guitar protection, with ample pockets for accessories. Was bought for use with a Yamaha Pacifica 112J guitar which is also for sale in a separate advert. £20.00 07806 667275

Reigning champions teach Hawks a tough lesson

DESPITE two strong performances from Rimantas Norkelinaus, Harlow Hawks' tough start to the season continued with two defeats.

Norkelinaus top scored in both games as Hawks suffered their second successive defeat in Herts League Division One against West Herts Warriors, before losing their first Essex League Division One game heavily to Erkenwald.

The Warriors game was tight throughout, after holding the visitors scoreless early in the first quarter a number of threees saw the Warriors lead by three after the first ten minutes.

And the Warriors continued their momentum in the second quarter, until Tom White and Norkelinaus helped narrow the deficit to seven at the break.

Again the Hawks started the quarter slowly, allowing the Warriors to extend their lead to 11. Both sides exchanged shots as the third quarter ended 51-42.

Hawks youngster Harry Patterson scored five quick points as they looked for a late comeback, before both sides combined to miss an incredible 11 efforts from the free-throw line. The visitors managed to hold off the late Hawks surge and close the game out for a 61-57 point win.

Harlow's first Essex League Division One game, following promotion last year, saw them suffer their heaviest defeat in long time.

The Erks have won the past three Division One titles and opened up an early six point lead, with scoring an issue for the Hawks.

The first quarter finished 25-12, before the Erks stepped up their game in the middle two quarters, restricting the Hawks to just 11 points. They continued their good form at the other end, to open up a huge 78-23 lead with just a quarter left.

Harlow restored some pride, scoring 17 points in the final ten minutes, but the damage was done and they went down 96-40.

Head coach Shab Niaz said: "We'll need to show more intensity and desire if we wish to make an impact in Division One."

IN BRIEF

Rick tames hilly course

HARLOW Running Club members competed in the first race of the Metropolitan Cross Country League held on a hilly five mile course at Claybury Park in Woodford.

Rick Ricketts was 341st out of 472 finishers in a commendable 36min 24sec.

At the Gunpowder parkrun 5K at Waltham Abbey, Jamie Luck was 34th out of 146 finishers in 22:17.

Rams rout Upminster

HARLOW Rugby Club's second XV, the Rams, enjoyed a crushing 87-5 win over Upminster on Saturday.

The victory consolidates their second place in the Shepherd Neame Essex Merit Table, Division Three table and sets down their intentions for a title challenge.

The visitors were put to the sword thanks to tries from James Clark (3), Ryan Clark (2), Alfie Clark (2), Joe Heeney (2), Simon Vanbeck (2), Dan Stevenson and Ali Phillips.

There were 11 successful conversions from Chay Clark in an emphatic win for the Rams.

'Shipping goals will cause Town to sink'

Away day problems continue for Harlow in Kent

Ryman Premier

Dulwich Hamlet . . . . . 3
Harlow Town . . . . . 1

ASSISTANT manager Spencer Knight was left frustrated as mistakes cost Harlow Town once again at Dulwich Hamlet on Tuesday night.

The Hawks halted their three game losing streak with a 1-0 win at home to Staines Town on Saturday, but went down 3-1 at Dulwich to leave them without an away victory in the league this season.

Although Knight saw improvements on previous away performances, especially in a dominant 20 minute spell in the second half, he knows they must stop shipping goals if they're to turn their form around.

He said: "First half we probably gave them too much time and space and didn't get into them."

"But they didn't really have any clear cut opportunities and their goal came from our mistake which is frustrating."

"Then we came out at the start of the second half and we dominated. We were on the front foot and really looking for an equaliser."

"But the penalty killed us and really knocked our confidence. It was a mistake by Jared Small but he'd done really well against the winger in the first half, and it's just unfortunate."

Ibrahima Sonko was missing as the Hawks kept a clean sheet on Saturday, but was back at the heart of the defence on Tuesday.

Knight admitted he doesn't know what they would've done if

Alain Moges had been available: "Young Alain came in and did really well, but he wasn't available or it would have been a really tough decision."

Both sides had chances early on, Nyren Clunis firing wide for the hosts, while Alex Read was denied by Preston Edwards.

Harlow found themselves behind just after the 30 minute mark, Clunis cut the ball back for Ibra Sekajja who found the roof of the net from 12 yards out.

The visitors piled the pressure on after the break with a number of set pieces, Sonko's header the closest they came to equalising.

Penalised

Ed Thompson produced a good save on the hour mark but there was nothing he could do 13 minutes later. Small was penalised for a foul in the box, and Ashley Carew calmly slotted the penalty away.

Sekajja turned provider for the third goal soon after, as Clunis found the bottom corner to put the result beyond doubt.

Read scored a consolation from the penalty spot, his ninth goal of the season, but Knight was left rueing the Hawks' leaky defence again.

"We've got to stop shipping goals, you're never going to get results if you ship the amount of goals we have recently and that needs to change."

"We want a clean sheet every game and it's the basis of what we try to do."

Bamba Ngamb netted an 85th minute winner for the Hawks on Saturday as they kept their first clean sheet in 12 games.

Day to remember for family

THE HARKNETT family had a day to remember, as twins Lewis and Owen carried on their good form with gold and silver medals in Birmingham.

They were competing in the prestigious road races as part of the Great Birmingham Run for Harlow Athletic Club.

Lewis won the 2.65km race in a time of 8min 36sec and was followed home by Owen in a time of 9:20.

Conditions on the day were hard, with pouring rain, but this did not dampen the spirits of the club's athletes who competed with distinction against the best of the Midlands' young endurance athletes.

In the U15 girls race, over the same distance, the in-form and rapidly improving Savanna Sirkett took a superb silver with a fine second place in a time of 10:10.

Team mate Zoe Rutter also had a very strong run to place sixth in a time of 11:24.

All four are members of HAC's elite junior endurance squad and coach Paul Bailey was delighted with their performances on the day.

He said: "For HAC's juniors to dominate at such a big event like this, finish so high up the field and to medal at these races is a huge achievement where the standard is so high."

"As a coach, I could not be prouder of these kids, their hard work has really paid off for them and I wish them all luck heading into the next races."

Historic rugby match for St Nicholas students

SATURDAY saw Old Harlow's Saint Nicholas School rugby teams take on Hertford's Simon Balle School in their first ever Saturday morning block fixture.

Nearly a hundred boys were involved in the highly competitive fixture which was held at Harlow Rugby Club, with matches being played across three age groups.

It has always been the school's new director of sport, Phil Tucker's plan to introduce Saturday morning fixtures as he feels this is an integral part of developing the pupils' understanding of what can be achieved through sport.

Tucker, who was appointed this September, said: "To experience playing rugby with your closest friends on a Saturday morning is what sport is really all about. Camaraderie, passion and enjoyment."

A strong Simon Balle year eight and nine team won their game, but St Nick's got their revenge as the Year 10 and 11 side won with the last play of the game, Matt Winter going over for the winning try.

The Year 7 game was played at a high tempo with tries galore from both sides.

It is hoped that a number of pupils will be inspired to join Harlow RFC as a result of the fixture. For more details about Harlow RFC contact Adam Clark on youth@harlow-rugby.co.uk.

TIGHT LIPPED: Knight wouldn't reveal who their new signings are

'There will be new faces on Saturday'

SATURDAY could see a couple of Harlow Town debutants, with Spencer Knight revealing the club are looking to add two new players to their squad before the game at Kingstonian.

The assistant manager wouldn't be drawn into naming the potential signings, although one of them will be brought in to boost their attacking options.

"We might have a couple of new faces this weekend to add into the side. I can't say who they are but one is an attacking player and there will be at least one new face in the side."

The Hawks have the worst away record in the league ahead of their trip to South-West London but Knight is hopeful they'll have a fully fit squad to choose from.

"We're hoping that David Hughes might be back, Ed Thompson has come in on Saturday and Tuesday night and hardly put a foot wrong in goal. That'll be a tough decision if Dave is fit."

"Craig Pope should be back in contention as well, he was on the bench on Tuesday night but just wasn't fit enough to play."

Knocks

"Then a couple of the boys went off on Tuesday with knocks, Fabian Simms and Syrus Gordon, we'll assess them at training and see how they do."

Alex Read scored a dramatic 90th minute winner against Kingstonian on the first day of the season and Knight wants the squad to take confidence from that result into the game.

"They're a good, experienced side at this level. Opening day is always difficult to judge a team and we got a last minute winner that day, hopefully we can get a result like that again."

"We did well playing the way we like to play, we were physical and we made life very difficult for them."

The K's groundshare with League One side AFC Wimbledon and Knight is hoping the side can replicate the success he had in his playing days at Kingsmeadow.

"It's a nice stadium and I've played there a few times against Wimbledon and Kingstonian. I've done all right and hopefully it's similar on Saturday and we have some success."

Rio star Chiassaro is targeting Tokyo

Racer admits he's 'got the bug' after Paralympics

By Matt Storey

RICHARD CHIASSARO is already back training after competing in his first Paralympics, and the wheelchair racing star has his eyes set on four more years of hard work.

The Harlow Athletic Club member came agonisingly close to picking up a medal in the T54 400m, missing out on the bronze medal by just one tenth of a second, and admitted his Rio experience had whetted his appetite for Tokyo 2020.

But before he thinks about a trip to Japan, the 34-year-old admitted he is more excited about the IAAF World ParaAthletics Championships in London next year than he was for Rio.

"Now I'm back in training for London 2017, and I'm looking forward to it more than I was looking forward to Rio," he said.

"I raced at the Anniversary Games there and the crowd was amazing, so London 2017 is where I want to do something special."

He added: "Looking back at Rio, I can honestly say it was awesome. ParalympicsGB were so supportive of everyone and the atmosphere in the camp was incredible, it was an amazing experience."

"I didn't expect it to be anywhere near as good as it was, but just walking from one end of the athletes' village to the other was massive, it was an incredible place to be. My attention turns to training for the World Athletics Championships and then I'll look into continuing on to Tokyo 2020."

"I was so proud of what I achieved in the 400m T54, but when I looked up at the time on the board and saw that I was just a tenth off bronze, it was a bit of a harsh feeling."

"Tokyo is another four years away, that's four more years of solid training and commitment, but I've got the bug for it now after Rio because that was my first Paralympic Games, so I'd like to go to another one and see what I can do there."

Fastest

"Over the past eight months in the lead up to Rio, I've changed completely as an athlete."

"My times this year have been the fastest in the world so I know I can knock out the times, I just need to do it in a big competition."

"As a whole though, I'm really happy with how it went for me in Rio, and I was just so proud to be selected in the first place."

The 34-year-old also coaches people of all ages and is passionate about getting more people involved in Paralympic sports.

"I've been coaching for a couple of years now and I'm getting new people coming along each week. I'm determined to help as many people as I can to get involved with sport. They're always asking me about Rio, because that's what they want to do themselves. I think they've got the right mentality for it, they just need to continue training hard."
